Devotional Thought - May 15th
Message:

Life is filled with "transitional moments" that make an impact on us. In the corporate world, a new CEO steps into leadership. In education, a new University president, or changes in the school superintendent or principal roles, in sports, a new GM or head coach, in the church, a new minister / evangelist. With these transitions come a potential new approach, and no doubt a new personality and leadership voice. God did the same in His Word, numerous times. One of the most critical was the handoff of the leadership baton from Moses to Joshua. However, we must also be aware that even after Moses' death he is not a forgotten man. Alongside Moses, Joshua was well prepared and equipped to lead the Israelites into the Promised Land. In this message we will look at Joshua's life in 5 layers. Our focus will not be on Joshua's leadership once in Canaan (only a minimal glance) - but rather the many nuggets of how Joshua was being readied for that task, and the way God prepared him under the guidance of his mentor, Moses. We will also consider the contrast of Moses' leadership in the desert wilderness - to- the moment Joshua faced in the next leg of the journey, crossing the Jordan River to become a settled people in a new land. There is a tremendous impact of this story to: 1) that of the church, and 2) our individual lives of faith in Christ. At our destination, we must answer a very critical question...

During Sunday School we will study a powerful Biblical topic: "(Possibly) The 10 Most Critical Questions Ever Asked In Scripture." There will be a handout with the key passages, and we'll walk through these quickly as an overview. Our objective will be to answer 2 questions: What were the immediate implications of those dialogues? And how do they expand to our world today?

During Sunday School it will also be my honor to briefly share a little about our family, ministry and life of faith that connected our paths together. I am humbled and honored to be with you and being part of your lives that morning. Mike
